Animal Rights

What you should know By David Calderwood

Excerpts from an article in the City Weekly. For the complete article see:

Animal Rights Activist Pays the Price of Grand Jury Resistance

October 20, 2010

By Jesse Fruhwirth

This month, 14 peace activists from the Midwest had their homes raided and property seized by the FBI before receiving subpoenas to testify before a federal grand jury. Citing their innocence and beliefs that federal law-enforcement agents are intentionally disrupting their lawful political activities, all of those activists have said they will not testify. To see what consequences may follow, grand jury resisters can look at 23-year-old Salt Lake City animal-rights activist Jordan Halliday, who may return to prison for a second time after invoking his Fifth Amendment right.

Halliday was subpoenaed to testify before a grand jury in February 2009. He appeared in court, but declined to answer questions. Federal prosecutors were seeking information related to two mink releases at farms in Kaysville and South Jordan in the summer of 2008. Two Utah men in their 20s, citing allegiance to the Animal Liberation Front, have pleaded guilty to one of those releases—court documents indicate prosecutors believe they were involved in both—and are now serving prison sentences of about two years each.

Like the Midwest peace activists, lifelong Utahn Halliday believes federal prosecutors are targeting him not to prosecute actual crimes but to disrupt the local animal-rights community. He says it is related to his outspoken support for nonviolent criminal activities aimed at freeing animals, even activities that are illegal.

"I was never involved in any underground Animal Liberation Front activities," Halliday says. "I just happened to be an outspoken, above-ground, animal-rights activist in Utah. We had been doing a lot more demonstrations lately, drawing both the government's and the media's eyes toward us. I don't think there's any reason that they subpoenaed me besides to possibly set an example to others."

Halliday says he endorses mink releases as a means of animal liberation, but does not engage in those activities himself. Like many others, he sees animal liberation as akin to the Underground Railroad; illegal activity that history may judge to be more moral than legal acquiescence.

Salt Lake City bookstore clerk and barista Kristina McIntyre supports Halliday's resistance. She and Halliday know each other from attending the same protests. She says that animal-rights activism can become discouraging and "hardening," but that Halliday is "so sweet and nice." She also distrusts the government, and believes prosecutors are trying to intimidate other activists by incarcerating Halliday. "If it's peace activists and animal-rights activists that need investigating, what is the structure being protected?" she asks. "The society I want to live in would have a different set of enemies."

TO: GOD
FROM: THE DOG

Dear God: Is it on purpose our names are the same, only reversed?

Dear God: Why do humans smell the flowers, but seldom, if ever, smell one another?

Dear God: When we get to heaven, can we sit on your couch? Or is it still the same old story?

Dear God: Why are there cars named after the jaguar, the cougar, the mustang, the colt, the stingray, and the rabbit, but not ONE named for a Dog? How often do you see a cougar riding around? We do love a nice ride! Would it be so hard to rename the 'Chrysler Eagle' the 'Chrysler Beagle'?

Dear God: If a Dog barks his head off in the forest and no human hears him, is he still a bad Dog?

Dear God: We Dogs can understand human verbal instructions, hand signals, whistles, horns, clickers, beepers, scent ID's, electromagnetic energy fields, and Frisbee flight paths. What do humans understand?

Dear God: More meatballs, less spaghetti, please.

Dear God: Are there mailmen in Heaven? If there are, will I have to apologize?

Dear God: Let me give you a list of just some things I must remember to be a good dog:

1. I will not eat the cats' food before they eat it or after they throw it up.
2. I will not roll on dead seagulls, fish, crabs, etc., just because I like the way they smell.
3. The Litter Box is not a cookie jar.
4. The sofa is not a 'face towel'.
5. The garbage collector is not stealing our stuff.
6. I will not play tug-of-war with Dad's underwear when he's on the toilet.
7. Sticking my nose into someone's crotch is an unacceptable way of saying 'hello'.
8. I don't need to suddenly stand straight up when I'm under the coffee table
9. I must shake the rainwater out of my fur before entering the house - not after.
10. I will not come in from outside and immediately drag my butt.
11. I will not sit in the middle of the living room and lick my crotch.
12. The cat is not a 'squeaky toy' so when I play with him and he makes that noise, it's usually not a good thing.

P.S. Dear God: When I get to Heaven may I have my testicles back?
